

Handwritten text in a medieval script, likely Latin, on a narrow strip of parchment. The text is arranged in several lines, though some are partially obscured by the strip's width and the parchment's texture. The script is a cursive Gothic hand, characteristic of the 12th or 13th centuries. The parchment is aged, with visible stains and a slightly irregular edge.